

The fact that I have to defend advancing technology is outragous. This offer will give me access to countless areas of delay in my travels to and from work, without the stuipd commercials, and annoying disc jockys that are never complete in announcing the traffic and never have all the information. I can only hope that when XM gets there traffic and weather broadcast underway, they can keep people such as myself up to date on the traffic instanlty, with all the areas of delay as they claim.
